Vegan Travel Adventures

Several years ago, contemplating a multi-day climb up Mt. Kilimanjaro but dreading being crammed in a food tent with omnivores chomping on animal products, I worked with a reputable guide company to arrange an all-vegan expedition. This culminated in Feb/Mar 2018 with a highly-successful 17-teammate Vegan Kilimanjaro trek. Since then, I've organized Vegan Antarctica (17 teammates, March 2019) and—after a 2-year covid delay—Vegan Inca Trail (12 teammates, originally 16, half were replaced twice, April 2022) followed by Vegan Uganda Gorillas (18 teammates, February 2023).

REPEAT EXPEDITIONS

Although I won't be going on these again, promoting vegan adventure is part of my outreach efforts, and the respective guide companies are eager to host new groups for the following trips. If you are interested in volunteering to organize a repeat expedition, you'll have the opportunity to choose the dates, negotiate the itinerary & pricing, and recruit participants (minimum of 4 people, with quantity discounts for more). I'm ready to advise, assist, and promote as needed.

Vegan Dolomites – June 23-29, 2024

This will be a series of day hikes to the most iconic sites (Lago di Braies, Tre Cime, Mountains of Mordor, Cinque Torri, Seceda...) in the Italian Alps north of Venice. After contacting 19 tour operators, only one was willing to match my proposed itinerary—at an exorbitant price. So I decided to arrange everything myself (van rentals, hotels, some meals, trail routes...) at a substantial savings and was able to quickly fill all 18 available slots just from my emailing list. With several experienced teammates from previous expeditions, we will drive and guide ourselves!

<https://www.facebook.com/VeganDolomites>

POTENTIAL FUTURE EXPEDITIONS

- * 2025 Vegan Borneo Orangutans
- * 2026 Vegan Iceland (Laugavegur Trail)
- * 2027 Vegan Nepal (monastery-to-monastery hike)
or Vegan Bhutan (with a hike to Tiger's Nest)
- * 2028 Vegan Madagascar Lemurs

if you'd like to be added to the interest list for any adventure.

Disclaimer

For my organizing and recruiting efforts, I neither seek nor receive any personal discount, perk, or compensation. I take pleasure in negotiating discounts/incentives for the entire team while striving to ensure that meals, gear, and accommodations are 100% vegan. If I'm offered a free trip or incentive, I divide its value by the number of participants so we can all share in the savings. My goal is to have compatible travel companies and companions while demonstrating that a vegan lifestyle can be fun and adventurous!

To Use V-Cards

Please patronize 100% vegan restaurants—they need our support!
But if none are available, most non-vegan eateries and grocery stores are eager for your business. Prepare V-Cards as detailed at the top of the desired language page, then hand one to your waiter or store staff.

Offline Access
Opening this file on a smartphones stores it in a download folder as V-Cards.pdf, which you can access with a File Manager app.

V-Cards are available at no charge in over 100 languages. I originally created them with Google Translate, which is machine generated and has led to some humorous translations. For example, on the Arabic V-Card, “oil” (under “No Animal Products”) was translated as “petrol.” On the Danish V-Card the “No Meat” translation was interpreted as “Not tonight, honey!” And on some of the Asian V-Cards, “No whites” (as in egg) translated to “No white people.”

I welcome the generous help of native speakers in improving the translations. If you are fluent in one of the listed languages and notice errors in its V-Card, please email corrections to me at mike.weinberg1952@gmail.com.

A satisfied user emailed the following message with a photo of her laminated Portuguese V-Card:
Thank you for the vegan card, it was very useful for my Camino, both Camino Frances and Camino Portuguese. This is a pilgrimage road, Camino de Santiago. Check out Martin Sheen’s movie “The Way.” You will love it!

MaxVegan No-SOS Recipes

www.maxlearning.net/HEALth/MaxVeganRecipes.htm

For optimum health, MaxVegan (MV) recipes use No refined Salt, Oil, or Sugar.

We crave and need sodium, fat, & glucose in our diets, but in lower amounts and primarily from whole, unrefined, minimally-processed foods. From sauces & dressings to main dishes & desserts, MaxVegan No-SOS Recipes appear in a unique visual format that aids setup, reduces errors, and minimizes wordy instructions. Recipes are kept short by combining items from sub recipes, often premade and stored or frozen for future use.

For new items, I typically search for and modify several online recipes that I'll either need to veganize or make no-SOS. If a recipe calls for salt, I'll use soy sauce (I prefer Bragg Liquid Aminos), which has about 1/8 the sodium of salt. For sweetness, instead of table sugar, I'll substitute date sugar (dried, ground-up dates—a whole food), erythritol (a low-glycemic, anti-cavity sugar alcohol typically derived from corn), or maple syrup.

Here's the recipe process depicted on page 2 of MV Recipe Basics at www.maxlearning.net/HEALth/MVRecipeBasics.pdf

To avoid double adding if distracted, used ingredients are moved to the other side of the blender.

Veganizing the world through dining choices & online activism!

www.maxlearning.net/HEALth/VeganDiegoBlog.pdf

Become an Online Activist!

This blog tackles controversial topics (see next page), but its focus is online activism, planting seeds that challenge omnivores' casual use and consumption of animals. If you're passionate about veganism and like to write, you can help counteract the anti-animal, pro-meat bias of many commenters to online publications. If nothing else, you can Like or Respect pro-animal-rights comments to show there are readers who care. On the occasions when someone replies to my comments, sometimes rudely or sarcastically, I strive to seek common ground.

Subject: Yes on H.R. 5023 PLANT Act

Message: Please support the PLANT Act (Peas Legumes And Nuts Today) Act introduced by U.S. Representative Jim McGovern of Massachusetts. H.R. 5023: To expand opportunity for agricultural producers, increase consumer choice in food markets, and enhance American international competitiveness by establishing new programs for food innovation, and for other purposes. This act would help to ensure that the USDA establishes an Office of Plant-Based Foods, which would increase incentives for farmers producing ingredients for plant-based foods, and implement a new plant-based protein research program.

Culture, Tradition Don't Justify Animal Cruelty

<https://voiceofsandiego.org/2024/03/05/culture-tradition-dont-justify-animal-cruelty/?fbclid=IwAR0I1ddpW3aKiVt4bNYRO-BqjKANLj5AGb2mGCqdP38srB25NU3hXSA8JCM>

The irony of a Park with Petco's name on it hosting a rodeo of all things is not lost on anyone who agrees that the gratuitous exploitation of animals for profit is unethical. What an embarrassment to the City of San Diego for granting a permit for this event. Hopefully, with Bryan Pease's pending lawsuit and/or Kent Lee's pending ordinance, it will be the last rodeo in San Diego.

Convert the Convertible

https://www.threads.net/@seitan_inside/post/C2Cd-yrO_Ch

Josh-seitan_inside. I am Vegan but I don't want to spend my life debating/arguing with people. I share what I have learnt with hope that there are other strong willed, compassionate people who will also make the connection and realise we no longer need to kill other living beings for us to live a healthy and happy life. I am not afraid to call out the anti vegan nonsense but realistically my time is more valuable to those who actually do care about what the animals have to go through.

- Me: It's discouraging that most people who learn the ethical, health, and environmental downsides of consuming animal products fail to embrace veganism. But as millions of former omnivores demonstrate, some people do change, so keep on sharing your vegan story. It helps to think our objective is to "Convert the Convertible," which I believe used to be the motto of the Vegan Outreach organization.

2025 Dietary Guidelines For Americans

<https://switch4good.org/dietary-guidelines-for-americans-2025/>

Switch For Good: In 2020, our supporters made up nearly 25% of all comments submitted by the public and we got soy milk to be included in the guidelines as nutritionally equivalent to cow's milk. This time our goal is to get dairy removed as a separate category.

- Me: (modified suggested comment): Remove dairy as its own category and integrate it into the protein category. Fluid milk consumption is declining, many cultures do not consume dairy, and most of the global population is lactose intolerant.

Judging on a Continuum

[Most Harm] Omnivore Reducetarian Vegetarian Vegan [Least Harm]

In this decidedly nonvegan world, it's impossible to avoid all harm to animals.

Even the strictest vegan has some culpability in the incidental killing of rodents, birds, and insects in the harvesting of food. And unless one has access to veganic (no animal inputs) produce, all organic & many conventional farms rely on animal-derived fertilizers (blood/bone/fish meal, etc.), which increase livestock-industry profits that help keep them in business.

Most vegans wouldn't visit a zoo, circus, or aquarium for entertainment, yet they likely watch & enjoy TV shows and movies that exploit animals, most commonly horses in westerns and historical-period pieces (Vikings, Game of Thrones, etc.).

Vegans avoid obvious animal products, but they can't always get away from or find alternatives to common products that contain animal byproducts, such as glued items, car tires, and road surfaces.

So it's not accurate to claim that vegans live "cruelty-free." We just try harder to do so than others.

Of course, omnivores cause the most harm to animals, which is especially frustrating if they've heard and rejected the vegan message. While we may decry reducetarians and vegetarians as not going far enough, at the very least, they are contributing to less animal suffering for whatever reason.

So if we are to judge at all, we should acknowledge that some lifestyles are better for animals than others, and any move towards Least Harm deserves some support and recognition.

Binary Choices

Choose the best of two options, then strive to go one better.

- * Are Meatless Mondays better for animals than regular Mondays? Yes or No?
- * Are Vegan Mondays better for animals than Meatless Mondays? Yes or No?
- * Are Vegan Weeks better for animals than Vegan Mondays? Yes or No?
- * Are cage-free facilities better for animals than caged facilities? Yes or No?
- * Are outdoor-free-range facilities better for animals than cage-free facilities? Yes or No?
- * Are no animal facilities better for animals than outdoor-free-range facilities? Yes or No?
- * Is humane-standards meat better for animals than conventional meat? Yes or No?
- * Is cultured (lab grown) meat better for animals than humane-standards meat? Yes or No?
- * Is no meat better for animals than cultured meat? Yes or No?

Some well-meaning activists counter that acknowledging anything but full-on veganism lets omnivores off the hook, easing their consciences by allowing them to feel good about taking "baby steps." The stark reality is that people won't change until they're ready to. They'll use any rationalization, whether you supply it or not, to justify their current behavior.

By all means, make the big "ask." Promote 100% veganism for ethical reasons. But most experienced activists know that simply exposing omnivores to the horrors of animal production and/or the various benefits of veganism (health, environment, animals) leaves the vast majority unmoved. Until veganism becomes normalized in their minds through multiple exposures from many societal sources, is a baby step better than no step? Yes or No?

IMPACT For Life
DELICIOUS • NUTRITIOUS • IMPACTFUL BAR

Our Mission

The idea behind the IMPACT BARS is simple: Eat Well – Do Good!

Every organic energy bar is OM Guarantee certified to ensure that a specific social impact takes place and is recorded on the blockchain.

Your purchase will either provide a vegan meal to a child in need, plant a tree, or feed a rescued animal. You decide how much impact you wish to make!
